UM....ER.....HELLO

WASNT '96 A REAL BUZZ?

AS THE SAYING GOES, THE MORE THINGS CHANGE THE MORE THEY STAY THE SAME

JUST FELT LIKE ONE BIG PARTY. ONE BIG LIBERAL PARTY THAT IS!

SO ID LIKE TO TAKE THIS MOMENT TO REASSURE ALL OUR READERS THAT TKO WILL ENDEAVOUR TO CONTINUE BRINGING YOU THAT FLUSHABLE HUMOUR WE HERE HOLD SO DEAR.

HOPEFULLY WE HAVE AVOIDED THAT AWKWARD 'THIRD EDITION' CURSE THAT PLAGUED THE MAD MAX, ALIENS AND OF COURSE ALVIN PURPLE MOVIES

NOT TO MENTION OTHER GREAT THIRD CATASTROPHIES - RICHARD THE THIRD, THE THIRD REICHT AND THE WORST OF ALL, THE THIRD ROCK FROM THE SUN TV SHOW!

IF TRUTH BE KNOWN ID SETTLE FOR THE THIRD LEG OF THE QUADDIE

SO ALL THATS LEFT TO SAY IS IF YA WANT GOOD CLEAN FAMILY READING, GO READ THE WOMENS WEEKLY

BUT IF VILE IS MORE YOUR STYLE THEN WHY NOT RELAX IN A COMFY CHAIR, TAKE YOUR SHOES OFF AND READ AWHILE?

..... OH YEAH, AND MULL MEANS MARIJUANA!

Many Thanks:-

- Sharon and Bonny
- Once again, Karen and Seona Bellamy
- Peter Scammell, for the great wrestling vids - "Let's Get Ready To Rumble!"
- Angelo Madrid and Rene Pfitzner - two tyros with a texta
- Mahogany and Greg Hall for financing this edition

IT'S A WAR...AND WE'RE LOSING

SIR, BAD NEWS FROM THE FRONT. I'M AFRAID JERRY'S BOMBED THE NEWSAGENT.... THERE WILL BE NO 'WOMAN'S DAYS' THIS WEEK SIR!

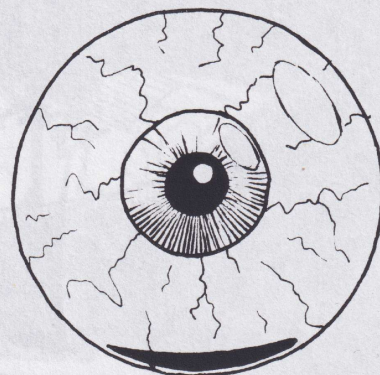

Having once before been trumped by the 'Woman's Day' with the Dannii Minogue 'I hate my breasts' story (Although we did make a rather lucrative offer to her implants in an effort to get her boobs' side of the story. However a spokesman for her boobs declined our offer.) TKO unfortunately reports...IT'S HAPPENED AGAIN! During one of the many heated TKO staff meetings (in the eight-items-or-less aisle of the supermarket) it was unanimously decided that TKO should make a concerted effort to boost our female readership.

- Got to be a feel-good story.
- Got to have a fairy-tale ending.
- Can't gamble on Australia not becoming a republic in the next month;

...so the Royals were out. Well to cut a long story short, there we were on the phone to Dannii's publicist hoping to get a 'my boobs and I are mates again' scoop (or at worst, an 'I'm getting some hot sausage and here's the details' type story) only to find out that Woman's Day had backdoored us again! Which is a real spew because we'd already come up with a beaut headline:

DANNII AND MY MANII: WHAMII, BAMII, THANK YOU MAMMII!

Truth In Advertising - Yeah Yeah

Who in their right mind at whatever advertising agency came up with those shtooooopid 'Police - It's Naughty To Speed' ads? Filling us all in on how using the latest in 'infallible' technology the filth can tax you even further for exceeding the speed limit.

You know the ones with the two drooling adolescent hotrodders driving down a country road only to get nabbed by the pigs cruising the other way with a mobile speed camera.

And if that's not bad enough, they want us to believe that our heroes (being the two young speeding motorists) respond to being pinged by the cops on a deserted country road with "Gosh, darn. Didn't see him. Oh poo!"

In the words of possibly Australia's greatest poet and still the only ad bordering on anything like the truth:

"You can get it milking a cow
You can get it working a plough
You can get it any old how Matter of fact I've got it now."

A SHOT IN THE ARM FOR THE PERSONALITY IMPAIRED

Two Swedish Scientists operating out of a backyard laboratory in Laverton held a press conference yesterday to announce a breakthrough in science.

By mixing the DNA of a dead kookaburra with the DNA of career-dead funnyman Ugly Dave Gray, the two scientists claim to have created the world's first genetically engineered charisma gene.

Present at the unveiling were both Prime Minister John Howard and Treasurer Peter Costello, who stunned onlookers by announcing they weren't there in an official capacity but as potential customers.

HOSE A POSER

A fire in a trendy Sth Yarra Nightclub forced patrons out onto the street and caused thousands of dollars damage.

A spokesman for the fire brigade said nobody was injured but passersby were treated for fashion-inhalation.

Kicked in the Nuptials

Police in Eaglemont have cracked an illegal marriage racket! Uniformed police raided the secluded church where a marriage between a man and a 20,000-watt generator was taking place.

The police later had to charge the man.

CHOKES ON A JOKE

Drama at the Montreal Comedy Festival last week, when two Bulgarian comedians were seriously injured when a joke got out of hand.

QUEEN THEME DREAM

In a shock announcement today, the Queen has uncovered plans to build a drive-in bottle shop in Buckingham Palace in an effort to attract more Australian tourists.

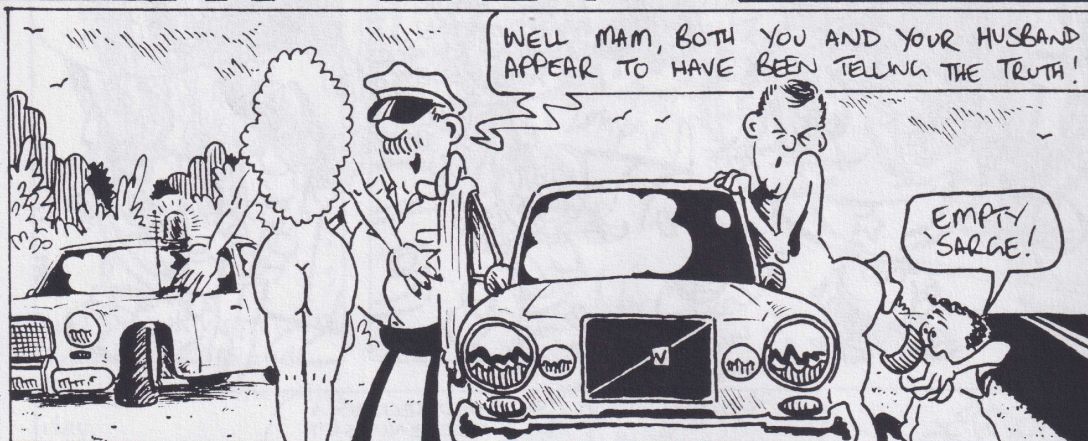

She also revealed plans to build a giant sauna to attract the Swedish, a huge inflatable hamburger to attract the Americans and a large pair of filthy underpants to attract the French.

But most surprising of all was her decision to create a huge dark and empty room with no atmosphere, or visible talent, to attract more performance artists.

TV OR TV

..... What was the Question?

Once again the television ratings period is upon us, heralded in as it is every year by that night of frights: The Loggles. And just like last year and the year before that these innovative and daring television execs have, in their wisdom, tried to foist the same old crap upon us, the limp viewer, as they do every year. Well, enough! It's time to fight back.....

RIP OFF... THEN ZIP OFF

Police in the Richmond area are still on the lookout for an Irishman who set up a loan-sharking scam a couple of months back. Apparently he lent money to people at ridiculous interest rates and then skipped town.

MADRID ON THE SKIDS,
AND
QUID

Former teen pop idol and media magnate, Angelo 'Atletico' Madrid, was reportedly in poor health and hiding in a villa in Thornbury. Lawyers for the failed Cartoon Tycoon are claiming that he is unable to face extradition charges due to his poor health.

"It's just not feasible. Mr Madrid is very ill and he can't even catch the train to Clifton Hill, let alone make the City Loop!" one lawyer said. But a photo taken just yesterday clearly shows Madrid leaving a Thornbury milk-bar, having just purchased a banana paddle-pop. Madrid, whose cartoon empire, Toontex, crumbled around him, has left many investors both broke and angry. It seems Madrid got into trouble after becoming involved in a bidding war with Australian newspapers over 60-year old American comic strips. A senior business analyst believes Madrid's biggest mistake was actually that he didn't read the strips before he bought them. "As anyone who's read them will tell you - THEY'RE JUST NOT FUNNY!"

Imagine our shock when word filtered through the Caravan Park to the sumptuous TKO offices, swathed in royal blue crushed velvet, that during our summer Marvel Comics had gone belly-up. Much sadness! If Marvel can't make a dollar, what chance have we got!? So we sent our Ace Reporter, Sniff McGooleys, to find out just where this comic giant went wrong. We were flabbergasted and freckle-punched when Sniff reported that Marvel had blown it all by trying to introduce new super-heroes that just never caught the public's imagination. Here are just three examples...

Just a quick word on the fabulous TKO Fund-raising Benefit the other day.

Many thanks to the people who participated and made it the great day that it was.

Special mention to my mum for the great trifle and to my Uncle Ned who got sprung pissing on our lemon tree no less than five times - he reckons it's good for the lemons, but it can't be any good for the tree, surely.

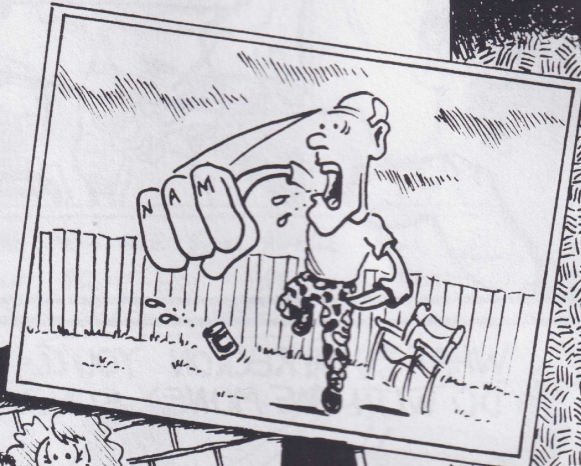

To my next door neighbours Bob and Queenie. I love you both but please keep your 'domestics' on the other side of the fence.

Speaking of which, to the Great Marvo the Fire-Eater. I've got a couple of quotes and the fence shouldn't be too expensive to replace (unfortunately it isn't covered by the Act of God clause in our house insurance.

To whoever pinched my Jerky Boys CD - you bastard!

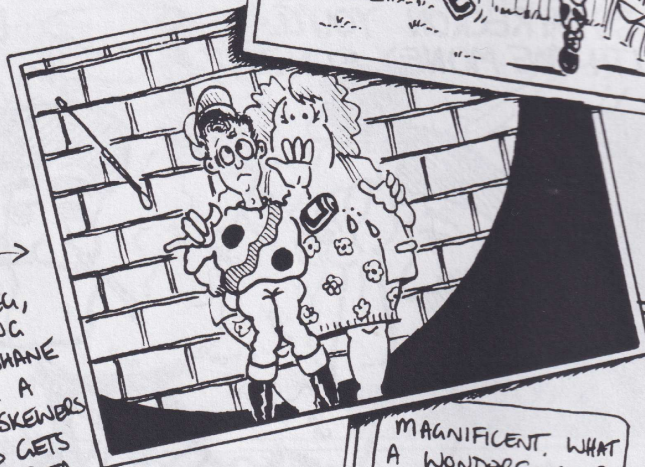

To Charlie Pezza, the 'sound guy'. It's amazing how much better my stereo sounds

AND BRUCE McAVANEY WAS THERE TO CALL THE WHOLE EVENT.

MAGNIFICENT. WHAT A WONDERFUL CHOP. ITS GOT TO BE A PERSONAL BEST. IT REMINDS ME OF THE GREAT CARLEWES AT A BAR-B-Q IN STUTTGART

now that I've bought new speakers.

To Bev, you were wrong. The stain didn't come out of the carpet and dogs can choke on chicken bones.

But all in all the day was a great one and the forty bucks spent on chops and snags more than offsets the three stubbies of Vic., one can of Tooheys Red, one bottle of Strong Bow Cider and half a cask of Riesling left behind. Not to mention the half full pack of Winfield 'Blue' I found under the table.

And finally to Spencer, I would like to agree with the magistrate who said it was truly unfortunate that he happened to be both naked and with an animal when the police arrived

EMDUR ON A BENDER

"If he's got any balls, then he'll come on down!"

These were the words a tired and emotional Lightning Larry Emdur belched at us in reference to reigning WWF heavyweight champ, 'Bad Boy' Barry Crocker.

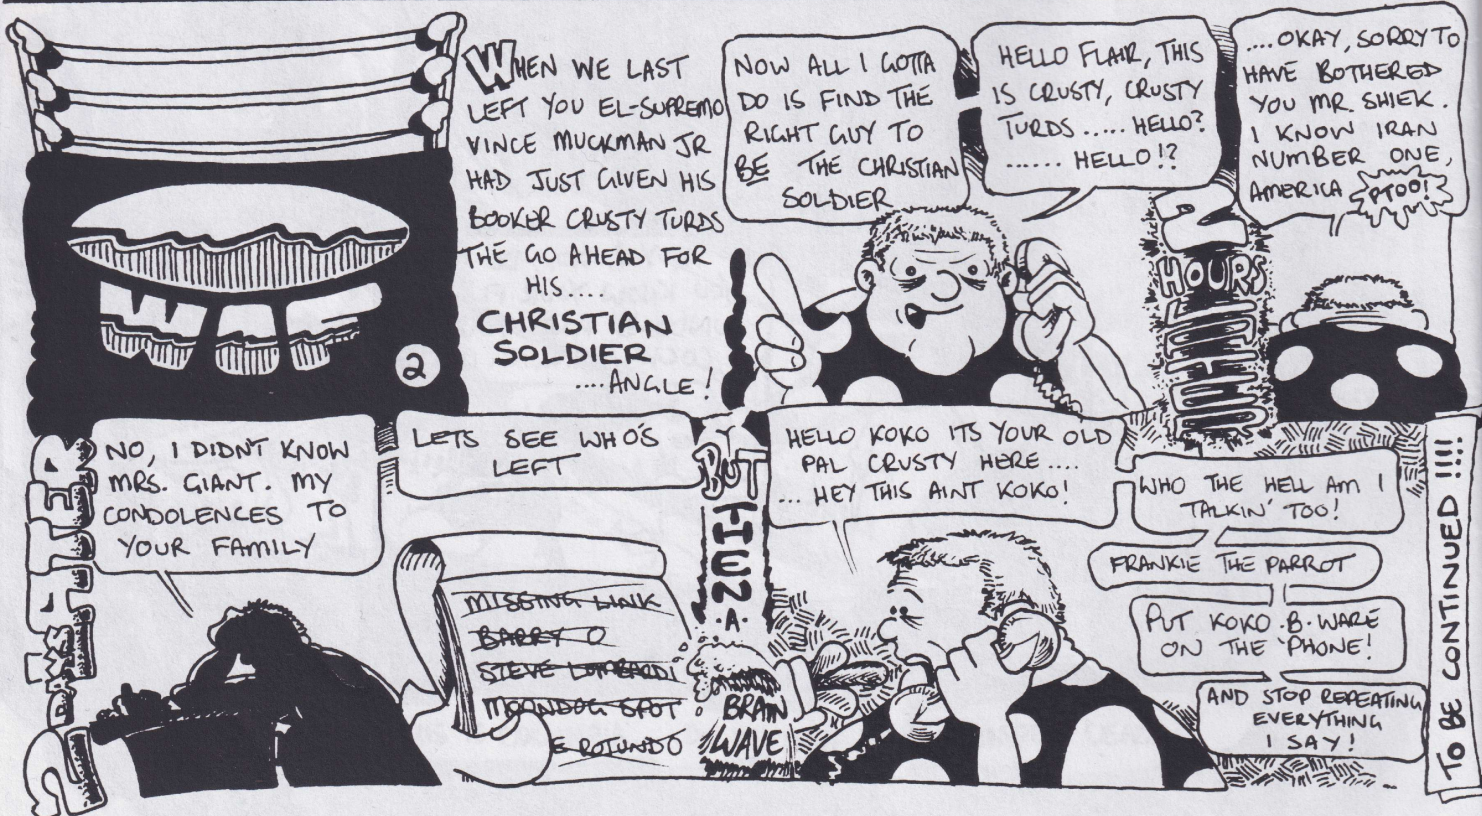

A visibly shaken Emdur was none to pleased at so-called outsider, Yasser 'The Cat' Arafat, being given a title shot ahead of him; as reported in previous editions.

Emdur must feel that his career in the WWF has stalled since the acrimonious split up of his successful tag-team, The Quiz-Masters - when his former team mate, Tony 'Ali' Barber, turned heel. The Quiz-Masters were all but set to challenge the current tag-team champs, Jumping Johnny Howard and Pistol Pete Costello (The Legislators), when things went horribly wrong.

First Barber fell out with The Quiz-Masters' manager, 'Baby' John Burgess, then with Emdur himself. Burgess was quoted at the time, "We were like a family once. Now it's become a Family Feud!" Emdur, whose patented hold - the Personality Pile Driver - is one of the most devastatingly mind-numbing moves in the caper, must feel he's been left out in the cold with Arafat being given a title shot.

Despite Emdur's ranting and raving, 'Bad Boy' Barry Crocker has shown little interest in defending his title against Emdur. This, no doubt, only exasperates the already ruffled Emdur. One thing is for sure though; for Crocker to fight Emdur...
